Khrushchev Gives Accord on Berlin Top Priority Rank

MILAN, Italy. (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev warned today that settlement of the problem of divided Germany, and especially Berlin, must take precedence over disarmament and other burning world issues.

Only if this East-West question is solved, he told the newspaper Il Giorno, would others fall into place.

Khrushchev blamed the United States for everything going wrong, and especially the deadlocked disarmament negotiations.

If the United States would just accept the Soviets' word without insisting on inspections, the premier said, an agreement to end nuclear tests could easily be negotiated.

He also repeated the Soviet threat, made before at Geneva, to withdraw its offer of two or three nuclear inspections a year if the United States continued to insist on seven or eight.

He himself, said Khrushchev, did not believe in God, but those who did—obviously meaning President Kennedy—had the moral duty not to build nuclear weapons.

The Soviet chieftain denounced the stationing of nuclear submarines to the Mediterranean, "almost under the walls of the Vatican," despite the peace pleas of Pope John XIII.

He claimed the subs and the U.S. insistence on sending nuclear warheads to Canada were intended to divert any Soviet reprisals from the United States to its allies.

Khrushchev's giving an interview to an Italian newsmen was considered strategically timed to affect the Italian parliamentary elections next Sunday. Il Giorno is owned by the state oil company and supports Pietro Nenni's left-wing Socialists.

In Washington, U.S. officials said they found nothing particularly new in Khrushchev's statements. The last foreign newsmen to interview him was Canadian publisher Roy Thomson on Feb. 9.

On what he considered the key question of world peace, Khrushchev said:

"The tension in the center of Europe can not be eliminated without the conclusion of a German peace treaty and the normalization on this basis of the situation in West Berlin.

"And without tranquility in Europe there will not be tranquility in the world.

"The question arises: either a search for agreed solutions and development of international relations towards an effective reinforcement of peace or an ever increasing international tension that could turn into thermonuclear war."

12 Pct. Slash In Ohio Payroll Is Rhodes Goal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's huge state payroll is expected to be reduced by about 12 per cent by this summer as department heads conform to State Finance Director Richard L. Krabach's 9.1 per cent cutback edict on state expenditures.

State departments have pared their payrolls liberally as the only areas where substantial economies could be made.

There were 59,439 state employees when Gov. James A. Rhodes took office.

Wayne Ward, director of the Ohio Department of Personnel, said the figure has been cut to 54,500 employees and will be cut to 5,000 by May 1.

If ward's prediction is correct, the net reduction in employees by that date will be 9.2 per cent.

But the cutting will not stop May 1.

Krabach said the payroll will be reduced by 7,000 after June 30 when state departments start reorganization programs. This would be a reduction of 12 per cent since the Rhodes administration took office.

Ward said many departments have pared payrolls to a minimum, but further cuts are expected in the departments of Natural Resources, Taxation and Health. Some departments face budget cuts effective July 1 which will result in personnel reductions.

Official Gets Tired Of Writing to Self

BALTONSBOROUGH, England (AP)—George Morris wrote himself a letter today resigning as secretary of the village hall committee.

He accepted his resignation with regret.

George or his wife Nancy are either secretaries or other top officials of most of the Somerset village's 18 voluntary organizations. George spends night after night writing letters as secretary of one organization to himself as secretary of another.

"I realized how ridiculous it was," he said.

AFTERMATH OF A PRISON RIOT — The results of the worst riot in the history of British Columbia penitentiary are evidenced in the ruins of Dormitory B-9. Some 300 prisoners set fire to its walls, tore heavy wire mesh in support of three inmates who held a prison guard until their complaints were heard. After bargaining for the life of a hostage guard, the three mutinous convicts won quick transfer to other prisons in return of his safe return.

Astronaut Urges National Space Information Center

NEW YORK (AP)—Astronaut John G. Glenn Jr. proposed today creation of a national information center into which would be channeled the vast new quantities of space age information.

The Marine lieutenant colonel, first American to orbit the earth, made the proposal in a speech prepared for delivery to editors and publishers at the annual Associated Press meeting.

Glenn said that while a national information center "can be initially organized to cope with the inundation of space information, it can pave the way in many fields toward 'use systems' of our knowledge, not just 'file systems.'"

By this, he explained, he meant that highly technical information would be more easily understood and thus would be better applied in everyday living.

"The effect on business and industry alone would probably far surpass the initial outlay of such a system, since an American businessman with a new idea needs little prodding," Glenn said.

Of his own mind, Glenn said the immediate purpose of the nation's space program is "providing transportation to new areas and return."

"None of the manned space programs of the future is merely to prove that man can adapt and is reliable or can live aboard a space craft," he said. "The long range 'pay-off' comes when we start using these capabilities to learn new things."

Air Guard Wins Trophy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Air National Guard jet squadron which flew to France during the 1961-62 Berlin crisis has been presented the Frank P. Lahm Air Safety Trophy.

Maj. Victor A. Rawlins of Chillicothe, commander, received the trophy on behalf of the Columbus-based 166th Tactical Fighter Squadron during ceremonies Sunday at Lockbourne Air Force Base.

The trophy honors retired Brig. Gen. Frank P. Lahm of Mansfield, one of two living aviators trained by the Wright brothers. It is awarded annually for the Ohio Air Guard tactical squadron with the best flying safety record.

Also honored were two veteran Air Guard sergeants who are retiring — M. Sgt. John W. Carter Sr. of Columbus and formerly of Circleville, and M. Sgt. Otto Hubner Jr. of Groveport.

Defense Chief Orders More Saving Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has issued a new order for global belt-tightening in an effort to overcome the stubborn drain of U.S. gold and dollars overseas.

The department said it is reviewing many areas for possible savings "including numbers of support personnel overseas as well as the cost of our overseas support operation."

In this connection, it was reported the rear echelon structure backing up the U.S. 7th Army in Europe is coming in for attention.

This organization is called the Communications Zone and in cludes port installations, storage and supply depots, transportation facilities and the like, mostly in France. It is run by 30,000 military people who have with them about 17,000 dependents.

Other elements that may get a close look are the various headquarters, which some officials think may be overstaffed, and military advisory groups in some countries where their value is considered marginal, particularly in Europe.

Nixon Favors Rocky-Barry

Ex-VeeP Disclaims Personal Ambitions

RICHARD M. NIXON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has joined the Republican unity parade in which New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., currently are bearing leadership banners.

Disclaiming any personal political ambitions, the man who lost the presidency to John F. Kennedy in 1960 suggested to the American Society of Newspaper Editors here Saturday that it might not be a bad idea if the 1964 Republican ticket were made up of Rockefeller and Goldwater.

"The strongest Republican ticket would be the two of them," Nixon told the editors, "and certainly if Lyndon and Jack (Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and President Kennedy) can get together, Barry and Nelson would."

The former vice president stressed again his contention that the man who gets the GOP nomination ought to be tested in the fire of next year's presidential primaries.

Naming Rockefeller, Goldwater and G. George Romney of Michigan and William Scranton of Pennsylvania as potential aspirants, Nixon extended an unofficial invitation for all to take potluck in next June's California Republican primary.

At the moment, however, the odds seemed to be against any such head-on collision of the four most mentioned as possible opponents of President Kennedy.

Nixon obviously hopes not only to be a member of the delegation to be elected in the primary but to have a major voice in determining which candidate it will support at the nominating convention.

College Loses Top Star; She's a Girl

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP)—Marietta College has lost the services of its top tennis player and not because of poor grades or an injury—because she is a girl.

School officials announced today that Ohio Conference commissioner rules state that only "bonafide male undergraduate students" can participate in varsity athletics.

The rule ends the budding college tennis career of 19-year-old Nancy Devlin of South Dartmouth, Mass.

Ohio Industrial Push Bill Readied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An emergency bill to back up one of Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes' chief campaign issues will see the light of day this week after languishing 10 weeks in a House committee.

It is a measure to establish an ambitious industrial development department with authority, through issuance of revenue bonds, to help finance new industry in Ohio and bring the state a hoped-for total of 200,000 new jobs.

The bill has been rewritten from stem to stern by a subcommittee. The new version is scheduled for unveiling Tuesday to the full House Commerce and Transportation Committee.

Another high spot of the 16th legislative week is expected to be a House floor vote on a bill backed by industry and business, but opposed by labor, to revise the unemployment compensation law.

The fund from which unemployment benefits are paid has shrunk in recent years from more than $600 million to about $100 million, a dangerously low level in the opinion of most experts in the field.

The proposal, scheduled to be before the House Wednesday or Thursday, would increase employer contributions to the fund to increase it within the next few years to about $450 million. But the same bill will stiffen qualifications for benefits by knocking out a number of liberalizing features adopted by the Democratic legislature of 1959.

Eastern Fires Cost 6 Lives, Vast Damage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A weekend of raging brush fires and building blazes took at least six lives, left many hundreds homeless and caused millions of dollars worth of damage in the bone-dry eastern area of the country.

The Weather Bureau in New York said the first substantial rain in the stricken area is expected in Pennsylvania and Maryland tonight.

Showers were forecast for today in parts of Pennsylvania, Connecticut, upper New York State and Virginia.

Three members of a New Jersey family were missing. Police said they may have burned to death when a forest fire engulfed their home.

Emergency crews moved from one scorched spot to another to restore electricity, telephone service and water supplies.

Emergency shelters were provided for many families. Others were taken in by relatives and friends.

From Maine to Virginia, thousands of firemen fought blazes. Most of the fires were reported extinguished or under control today.

More than 350 homes were destroyed or badly damaged and about 300,000 acres were blackened in raging brush fires, whipped by high winds, on New York City's Staten Island and in New Jersey.

employers would produce $210 million a year against about $150 million annually now. The peak pay-out period in the history of the fund was in the year ended August 1961-$302 millions.

Evidence that Republicans are serious about ending this session of the 105th General Assembly speedily comes from House Speaker Roger Cloud who tells newsmen he hopes to have the general appropriation bill to run the state for the next two years on the House floor for a vote about May 1.

If that schedule is followed, the Senate might have the $1.3 billion money bill up for a floor vote shortly after June 1.

Solon Admits Congressmen Get Bad Name

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Frank T. Bow, R-Ohio, said today that the antics of a few members are giving Congress a bad name among constituents.

"Apparently the House of Representatives in the imagination of many Ohioans looks like 435 Adam Claydon Powells, and they do not like Representative Powell," Bow said in a statement.

"I cannot recall a time when there has been as much criticism of the Congress as there is this spring," he said.

"The daily mail always includes at least one letter on the subject of congressional spending, the new Rayburn House office building, the aforementioned Mr. Powell or foreign junkets," Bow said.

Powell, a New York Democrat, is chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee. He has been criticized for his spending of committee funds, including trips overseas.

There has also been criticism of Congress for constructing the new House office building which includes a swimming pool and refrigerators in every office.

Bow said, "There have been abuses of the privileges and allowances of members of Congress throughout history, and I do not think they are any more widespread now than at other times."

Latest Gear To Seek Sub

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) — The painstaking attempts by a Navy court of inquiry and an oceanographic research vessel to determine what caused the loss of the nuclear submarine Thresher continued today at Portsmouth Naval Shipyard and 200 miles away at sea.

The research vessel Atlantis II, after taking aboard additional electronic equipment at Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, returned to the spot some 20 miles east of Boston where the Thresher sank with 129 men aboard in 8,400 feet of water April 10.

Officials at Woods Hole said they hope that with the additional equipment the Atlantis II will soon be able to pinpoint the spot where the Thresher lies.

Kennedys To Delay Use of New Home

ATOKA, Va. (AP) — Workmen have put the stucco exterior on the new weekend home President and Mrs. Kennedy are building in the Virginia hunt country.

Though the home Mrs. Kennedy planned with such care is nearing completion, it now looks as though its owners won't get to use it for some time.

Mrs. Kennedy, expecting a third child, has announced she will go to Cape Cod sometime in May to remain in seclusion until her child is born in late August.

There's also the problem now that the Kennedys built their home with just two bedrooms planned for the two children they already have, Caroline, 5, and John Jr., 2.

Move Linked To Laos Crisis

Precautionary Action Revealed by Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. defense authorities said today certain purely precautionary moves by the U.S. 7th Fleet have been undertaken in crisis-threatened Southeast Asia.

A decision has been made, it was learned, to send some additional 7th Fleet units into the Gulf of Siam area.

Some units of the 7th Fleet already are there.

The move was part of the U.S. effort to show its great concern over developments in Laos where pro-Communist forces have seized the main positions of the neutralist army supporting Premier Souvanna Phouma.

Earlier high-ranking U.S. authorities said there is a possibility U. S. troops might be sent back to Thailand because of the Red threat to neighboring Laos.

They spoke of the serious situation there as President Kennedy met during the morning with the National Security Council to discuss Laos. White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said he did not expect any announcement afterward.

The authorities would not speculate on just what U.S. military moves might be taken, although conceding that U.S. troops could be returned to the strife-torn Southeast Asian monarchy.

So far the U.S. emphasis has been on diplomatic moves to keep the Communists from toppling the Laos coalition government headed by neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma.

The United States despatched several thousand troops to Thailand when the Reds threatened to overrun Laos last year. The American forces were eventually withdrawn.

U.S. authorities gave this picture of the Laotian situation today:

The three-nation International Control Commission supposed to police a cease-fire in Laos will probably be able to get some representatives to the Plaine des Jarres trouble area, though it appears they will be stationed only with the neutralist forces, not the Red Pathet Lao.

The so-called fighting in Laos has been less severe than some reports indicated. The action has been more in maneuver, troop movements and artillery fire than in combat.

If the Geneva agreement for a neutral independent Laos free of non-Communists in Laos will be in a stronger position than before the Geneva pact went into effect last year.

This is because the neutralists and rightists in Laos have drawn closer together in the face of Communist violations.

Laos is important to the security of the West in the sense that if the Communists gained control of it, and exploited their control, they would threaten the rest of Southeast Asia. And if Southeast Asia fell, the Red influence would expand to Indonesia and cut the non-Communist world in two.

Sandusky Reactor Ready for Research

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Lewis Research Center in Cleveland said the Plum Brook reactor reached its full authorized power of 60,000 kilowatts Sunday for the first time.

Lewis will operate the reactor in experiments under a program aimed at developing a nuclear space rocket. Lockheed Aircraft Corp. will join the NAA facility in conducting the first experiments. These will involve small samples of metal, which will be exposed to radiation at extremely low temperatures—more than 400 degrees below zero.

Congress Holds In Low Gear

Major Legislation Still To Be Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) —Congress will have to work harder if it is to produce a respectable batting average before this session ends.

Returning today from a 10-day Easter vacation, Congress had little to show for the almost four months it has been in session.

It has enacted eight public laws, the more prominent of which extended the draft and made Winston Churchill an honorary citizen.

There are no signs of a big legislative push in the offing, but Senate and House leaders have served notice that there will be little time-off if the legislators want to wind things up by Labor Day.

The only major bill near enactment is the annual authorization measure for procurement of missiles, aircraft and naval ships. It has passed both branches and is awaiting a compromise agreement.

The Senate has passed bills providing for a mass transportation system, preservation of wilderness areas, and establishment of a youth conservation corps. All three are in House committees and could run into trouble in the Rules Committee, which directs the flow of bills to the floor.

For this week, the Senate's biggest order of business probably will be action on the President's nominations for officers of the Communications Satellite Corporation. The House docket, a little heavier, calls for votes on a bill to provide federal aid for medical and dental schools and a bill to extend the feed grains control program.

The astronaut also urged research into ways of increasing our mental capacity to absorb the additional knowledge made available. He noted that the average person, according to psychiatrists, uses only seven-tenths of one per cent of his mental capacity.

After reviewing the National Aeronautics and Space Administration program to put a man on the moon, Glenn commented:

"We are certainly aware of the 'race' aspects of the lunar mission, but feel the program is completely worthwhile even if there were no such place as Communist Russia."

"We cannot possibly pinpoint all the advantages and benefits that will accrue, but research and exploration have always had a way of paying off in the future, far beyond any expectation, and this is the grandest exploration of all time."

Communists Deploy Vast Arsenal In Countering Propaganda from U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—From Radio Hanoi in English: "U.S. imperialists. Noxious chemicals." From Radio Moscow in Tonkinese: "Executioners." From Radio Havana in Spanish: "Bacteriological warfare. Merchants of blood and death."

These charges and words of abuse are Communist cannon in the cold war.

They belong to an arsenal that includes millions of books, thousands of feet of film, magazines in 20 languages, traveling clowns and Armenian folk dancers.

All are used in the relentless, massive psychological warfare devised and executed by the Communist world.

This warfare is matched, although some say in a less massive and relentless way, by the United States and its allies.

Some Americans believe the Communists, in their psychological warfare, have an unfair advantage, that the Reds lie in their teeth and some of the unsophisticated people of the world gobble up the lies.

"I cannot recall a time when there has been as much criticism of the Congress as there is this spring," he said.

"The daily mail always includes at least one letter on the subject of congressional spending, the new Rayburn House office building, the aforementioned Mr. Powell or foreign junkets," Bow said.

Powell, a New York Democrat, is chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee. He has been criticized for his spending of committee funds, including trips overseas.

There has also been criticism of Congress for constructing the new House office building which includes a swimming pool and refrigerators in every office.

Bow said, "There have been abuses of the privileges and allowances of members of Congress throughout history, and I do not think they are any more widespread now than at other times."

Latest Gear To Seek Sub

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) — The painstaking attempts by a Navy court of inquiry and an oceanographic research vessel to determine what caused the loss of the nuclear submarine Thresher continued today at Portsmouth Naval Shipyard and 200 miles away at sea.

The research vessel Atlantis II, after taking aboard additional electronic equipment at Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, returned to the spot some 20 miles east of Boston where the Thresher sank with 129 men aboard in 8,400 feet of water April 10.

Officials at Woods Hole said they hope that with the additional equipment the Atlantis II will soon be able to pinpoint the spot where the Thresher lies.

Kennedys To Delay Use of New Home

ATOKA, Va. (AP) — Workmen have put the stucco exterior on the new weekend home President and Mrs. Kennedy are building in the Virginia hunt country.

Though the home Mrs. Kennedy planned with such care is nearing completion, it now looks as though its owners won't get to use it for some time.

Mrs. Kennedy, expecting a third child, has announced she will go to Cape Cod sometime in May to remain in seclusion until her child is born in late August.

There's also the problem now that the Kennedys built their home with just two bedrooms planned for the two children they already have, Caroline, 5, and John Jr., 2.

Move Linked To Laos Crisis

Precautionary Action Revealed by Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. defense authorities said today certain purely precautionary moves by the U.S. 7th Fleet have been undertaken in crisis-threatened Southeast Asia.

A decision has been made, it was learned, to send some additional 7th Fleet units into the Gulf of Siam area.

Some units of the 7th Fleet already are there.

The move was part of the U.S. effort to show its great concern over developments in Laos where pro-Communist forces have seized the main positions of the neutralist army supporting Premier Souvanna Phouma.

Earlier high-ranking U.S. authorities said there is a possibility U. S. troops might be sent back to Thailand because of the Red threat to neighboring Laos.

They spoke of the serious situation there as President Kennedy met during the morning with the National Security Council to discuss Laos. White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said he did not expect any announcement afterward.

The authorities would not speculate on just what U.S. military moves might be taken, although conceding that U.S. troops could be returned to the strife-torn Southeast Asian monarchy.

So far the U.S. emphasis has been on diplomatic moves to keep the Communists from toppling the Laos coalition government headed by neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma.

The United States dispatched several thousand troops to Thailand when the Reds threatened to overrun Laos last year. The American forces were eventually withdrawn.

U.S. authorities gave this picture of the Laotian situation today:

The three-nation International Control Commission supposed to police a cease-fire in Laos will probably be able to get some representatives to the Plain des Jarres trouble area, though it appears they will be stationed only with the neutralist forces, not the Red Pathet Laos.

The so-called fighting in Laos has been less severe than some reports indicated. The action has been more in maneuver, troop movements and artillery fire than in combat.

If the Geneva agreement for a neutral independent Laos free of non-Communists in Laos will be in a stronger position than before the Geneva pact went into effect last year.

This is because the neutralists and rightists in Laos have drawn closer together in the face of Communist violations.

Laos is important to the security of the West in the sense that if the Communists gained control of it, and exploited their control, they would threaten the rest of Southeast Asia. And if Southeast Asia fell, the Red influence would expand to Indonesia and cut the non-Communist world in two.

Sandusky Reactor Ready for Research

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Lewis Research Center in Cleveland said the Plum Brook reactor reached its full authorized power of 60,000 kilowatts Sunday for the first time.

Lewis will operate the reactor in experiments under a program aimed at developing a nuclear space rocket. Lockheed Aircraft Corp. will join the NAA facility in conducting the first experiments. These will involve small samples of metal, which will be exposed to radiation at extremely low temperatures—more than 400 degrees below zero.

Congress Holds In Low Gear

Major Legislation Still To Be Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) —Congress will have to work harder if it is to produce a respectable batting average before this session ends.

Returning today from a 10-day Easter vacation, Congress had little to show for the almost four months it has been in session.

It has enacted eight public laws, the more prominent of which extended the draft and made Winston Churchill an honorary citizen.

There are no signs of a big legislative push in the offing, but Senate and House leaders have served notice that there will be little time-off if the legislators want to wind things up by Labor Day.

The only major bill near enactment is the annual authorization measure for procurement of missiles, aircraft and naval ships. It has passed both branches and is awaiting a compromise agreement.

The Senate has passed bills providing for a mass transportation system, preservation of wilderness areas, and establishment of a youth conservation corps. All three are in House committees and could run into trouble in the Rules Committee, which directs the flow of bills to the floor.

For this week, the Senate's biggest order of business probably will be action on the President's nominations for officers of the Communications Satellite Corporation. The House docket, a little heavier, calls for votes on a bill to provide federal aid for medical and dental schools and a bill to extend the feed grains control program.

TODAY' COOL, wet weather probably has quieted the activity of local mushroom hunters.

However, Mrs. Helen Davis, 396 Eva Drive, took advantage of yesterday's sunshine in the morning and early afternoon. She traveled to the hills in the Bull Creek area near Adelphi and came back triumphantly with four pounds of the spring delicacies.

Pickaway County To Get $191,126 In License Money

Pickaway County's share of the first advanced distribution of 1963 license plate funds amounts to $191,126.37, according to Dave Mainwaring, state registrar.

The auto license tag money is scheduled for distribution before the end of this month.

Announcement that the funds soon will be on the way "should be good news to local officials, charged with the maintenance and improvement of county, municipal and township road systems, Warren C. Nelson, highway safety director, said. "The severe winter left many of the roadways badly in need of repairs."

Statewide the distribution totals $46,047,298.20. Of this amount $32,972,472.40 will be available to the various counties. Share going to municipalities is $13,074,825.80. Later an additional $7,496,071.80 will be distributed to the counties and townships throughout the state. This will be based on the number of county and township road miles in the individual political subdivisions, Director Nelson said.

The entire distribution will total $53,543,370, a record sum for the period, to be shared by local government from this fund. It results from an increase of approximately 100,000 registered vehicles throughout the state during the first six weeks of the new licensing year over a year ago. Total vehicles registered during the period was 3,800,000.

Steel Stockpile Study Renewed

More Buying Is Seen As Strike Is Feared

CLEVELAND (AP) — Steel users started ordering extra tonnage last month, but now some are afraid their protection against a possible strike isn't adequate, Steel Magazine said today.

The reason, the metalworking weekly said, is that higher prices by the producers may boost steel industry earnings and encourage the United Steelworkers of America to bargain more aggressively.

"Steel price increases may have a paradoxical effect on the market, spurring demand and speeding the buildup of consumer inventories," the publication said. "Before the price hikes, demand seemed to be topping out. Now there's evidence of renewed activity."

The consensus is that April bookings will top those last month by 10 to 15 per cent, Steel said.

A growing number of people believe a contract reopening by the Steelworkers is virtually certain—"not on May 1, perhaps, but as soon as USW President David J. McDonald regains his health and summons his wage policy committee," the magazine added.

Steel users in major metalworking cities contacted in a survey by the publication indicated that if the new steel prices stick, the hikes will be passed on to the consumer on a "selective" basis. "Automakers haven't said the steel price increases will be passed along on 1964 models," Steel said. "Material cost increases per car will average about $6. Most of the hikes are on the flat rolled products used extensively in automobile construction."

The magazine predicted another increase in steel production this week. Estimated output of 2.5 million tons last week was the highest since the first quarter of 1960 and compared with 2,464,000 tons the previous week.

Steel Prices Climb, but Future Is Uncertain

NEW YORK (AP) — The dam broke for steel price increases last week, but the future is uncertain.

The plug was pulled when U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's biggest producer, joined in the selective boosts initiated eight days earlier by relatively small Wheeling Steel Corp.

Big and small companies came tumbling after and soon the move had spilled through virtually the entire industry.

President Kennedy indicated he had no intention of trying to balk the increases. He told the American Society of Newspaper Editors that he felt the steel companies had acted with "some restraint."

He expressed hope that steel-using industries, particularly the automakers, and the labor unions also will exercise restraint to prevent inflation.

Kennedy had indicated after Wheeling's original action that selective increases would be acceptable.

The boosts averaged about 3 per cent with U.S. Steel posting the smallest ones. The increases covered less than 50 per cent of production.

Many questions remained to be answered in the wake of the price boosts. They included:

Will there be a rise in prices of consumer goods using steel? Will the United Steelworkers Union harden its demands?

Will wage-price stability be affected generally?

Most steel users said they were studying the new price schedules and that it was too early to tell what might happen.

The union remained silent. It can reopen its contract for wage negotiations May 1 and would be free to strike 90 days later.

It was far too early, also, to determine the effect on a wide range of wages and prices. Kennedy has said that what he wants to avoid is an inflationary spiral.

A steel industry publication, Iron Age, expressed the opinion that, "Demand for steel is strong enough to sustain most increases."

Frederick Kappel, chairman of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said the steel price raise "is one of the good things that has happened to the economy. It could be a blessing in disguise."

He added that the fact that "President Kennedy stayed out" may help what he sees as a new confidence about business.

While interest was centered on the cascade of price boost announcements, steel production reached the highest level in three years. Output during the week totaled 2,464,000 tons, up 2.1 per cent from the previous week. The industry operated at an estimated 80 per cent of its capacity.

Much of the heavy demand came from the automobile industry where an estimated 159,000 passenger cars came off assembly lines during the week. This compares with 152,694 the previous week and 146,215 a year ago.

Sales continued heavy but the rate of gain over a year ago fell off somewhat. Dealers delivered 219,063 cars in the first days of April, 1 per cent above a year earlier and a record for the period. However, in the first three months of this year sales were 10 per cent above a year ago.

Elsewhere in the economy, personal income, housing starts and industrial output rose.

Personal income advanced in March to an annual rate of $452.7 billion, about $1.6 billion above February.

The rate of housing starts last month rose to the highest in four months — 1,494,000 annually. This was 17 per cent ahead of the February level.

Total output of factories, mines and utilities reached a record in March. The Federal Reserve Board said its index of industrial production rose to 120.4 per cent of the 1957-59 average from 119.4 in February. The old record of 119.8 was set last September.

An Informed Public

As long as medicine is an art — it will probably never be an exact science while patients and physicians are human — there will be a defense for the doctor who adheres to the principle that silence is golden. It's not always easy to explain to a layman just what is wrong with him and how the prescribed treatment will achieve a cure.

If the patient would only be confused and frightened, it might be safer to treat him gently but tell him as little as possible.

So there are many doctors who deliberately avoid getting into technical discussions with their patients. Some of them go so far as to keep literature dealing with health off their waiting room magazine tables. Patients who read them frequently imagine they have symptoms of all sorts of ailments, they explain.

But a change has been taking place. As the science of medicine has advanced, it has made news. More and more people have picked up at least a smattering of medical knowledge. Slowly the medical profession has veered to the viewpoint that there's definite advantage to be gained from enlightening the public on matters of health.

The informed patient can and will cooperate with the doctor in getting an early diagnosis, following the prescribed treatment, maintaining a good mental attitude, and so on.

There are other advantages. Popular interest in medical progress has meant that public appeals for research funds could succeed. It has resulted in quicker acceptance of new techniques, new drugs, new ideas.

Sports and Fitness

Many young people regard walking more than a few blocks as a positive hardship. This is not entirely the children's fault.

Walking as a means of getting somewhere or purely for exercise is discouraged these days. A pedestrian venturing on the verge of concrete-ribbon highways does so at the risk of life and limb. They are wholly dedicated to the motor car god.

More than anything else, we need a change in our attitudes. If children are to become participants instead of spectators, adults will have to ease the slavish idolization of commercialized sport. Young people inherit it from their elders.

Pictures of youngsters in Europe hiking in droves with rucksacks on their backs are not signs that they are "simple" or "backward", but rather that they are enjoying fun in the true meaning of that word. And the young people's cycling clubs which abound in Europe exist because their members enjoy the open-air exercise in the country, not because they cannot afford a car.

Physical exercise is only part of fitness. Rest, wise hygiene and diet play important parts. If there were less indulgence in candy bars, pop and popcorn and more dependence on more natural foods, fitness figures would show an improvement.

Where the Mole Has Been

By John Chamberlain

Sure as shooting, the Kennedy Administration has hopes that some sort of Grand Design for a real peace with Khrushchev can be made a permanent reality. The presumptive gamble is that the Kremlin will be sufficiently accommodating to call off the dogs of subversion all over the world, in Laos, in Guatemala, in Venezuela, in Berlin, and everywhere else, save in spheres touching on Red China over which the Soviets have no control.

Unlike the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, who in the last days of World War II, outlined his hopes for a Grand Design of accommodation with Stalin to Forrest Davis for publication in the Saturday Evening Post, the Kennedys are close-mouthed about their projected blueprint. But one can follow the thinking of the Administration as one traces the movements of a mole, by noting the upheavals of the terrain. One does not have to see the animal to know where he has been.

On one day, the mole burrows his way along, the State Department lectures U. S. longshoremen for their refusal to load ships in American ports with cargo destined to go to Cuba or to Iron Curtain countries in Europe. On another day Cuban exiles are warned against hit-and-run raids on Castro's shipping. These things are followed up by a combination of blows delivered at the Cuban exile leader, Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, that recalls the most accomplished ring patterns of old Sugar Ray

Robinson when he was at the top of his pugilistic career.

A State Department understrapper, Robert Hurwicz, is so displeased with Dr. Miro for expressing feelings of betrayal that he threatens the Cuban exile, no citizen of the United States, no deportable "as a traitor" if he fails to keep a tight button on his mouth. Then the State Department enraged that Dr. Miro has indicated the existence of a 22-page document outlining the substance of his talks with the Administration over the course of two years following after the Bay of Pigs fiasco, leaks a portion of the document in order to refute the reputed burden of the whole.

Naturally, the State Department repudiates Hurwicz's angry threats — but Dr. Miro, reading some signs on the wall, takes the precaution to obtain a visa from Gonzalo Fiasco, the Secretary General of the Organization of American States, which will enable him to seek shelter in Costa Rica. By the time this column is in print Dr. Miro may have departed our shores. In Miami his friends are wondering if he will be the first of a new category of "exiled exiles."

It's all a mess, just as a crisscross of mole burrowings can make your lawn a mess. But the mess on top of the lawn does not necessarily indicate a lack of direction in the mole's peregrinations. Dr. Miro, being hot blooded, is quite capable of forcing a mole to use alternative tracks. As the son of a famous Cuban general who fought against Spain in the seventeenth century, he sliced his drive clean out of bounds, and growled fiercely at the caddy, "That was on account of you and your — hiccoughs." "But I didn't hiccough then, sir," protested the caddy. "That's just the point," screamed the player. "I had ALLOWED for it!"

The next place Dr. Miro popped up in was in Miami after a complete break with Castro on the subject of Communism. Castro was the first to call Dr. Miro a traitor. This raises a nice point in diplomatic metaphysics: can you be both a traitor to Castro and to the United States of America without raising the presumption that the U. S. is Castro's friend?

While the to-do about Dr. Miro has been going on, Miami friends of the Cuban exile leader have been sourly charging that New York lawyer James B. Donovan took his 'teen-age son to Cuba with him for vacation during his last spell of negotiation for the release of prisoners.

"What's going on here, a honeymoon with Fidel?" asked one of the disillusioned Cuban exiles.

NEAR THE end of a tense golf match, one of the contestants, very temperamental, was thrown off his game when his caddy developed a severe attack of hiccoughs. On the seventeenth hole, he sliced his drive clean out of bounds, and growled fiercely at the caddy, "That was on account of you and your — hiccoughs." "But I didn't hiccough then, sir," protested the caddy. "That's just the point," screamed the player. "I had ALLOWED for it!"

Senator Borah of Idaho mailed out more letters to constituents than any of his colleagues—and the bulk of them went to his bitterest political enemies. "No point in sending copies of my speeches to friends who already agree with me," Borah explained. "My enemies, however, read every word I say—looking for mistakes."

"I'm a man of few words," thundered a pompous congressman in the House one day. "Could be," chuckled a congressman across the aisle, "but you're keeping them mighty busy."

"Monday disease" is replacing Monday morning blues in the attention of Dr. Vernon Dodson at the University of Michigan.

"Monday disease" is a special condition that affects workers who are exposed to zinc fumes. It was observed that these workers developed fever and chills and bouts of coughing especially on Monday mornings. These symptoms slowly disappeared toward the end of each week.

The explanation was finally established. Over the weekend period, these metal workers lost their tolerance to the irritating fumes that surrounded them at work. When on Monday they returned to work and were again exposed to these fumes, the symptoms actively began again until their tolerance was built up again by the end of the week.

The University of Michigan and public health officials are setting up protective devices to maintain the health of the metal workers in all industries.

The transplantation of organs like the kidney has stimulated research of a similar nature. At the Medical College of Georgia, surgeons and scientists are now studying the possibility of transplanting new lungs for those that are medically incurable. This courageous kind of investigation draws on the imagination, skills, and knowledge of research doctor, technicians and physiologists.

There is no doubt that the transplantation of lungs will soon leave the field of speculation and become a practical reality.

The Business World

By ED MORSE

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel price increases and indications that President Kennedy is not going to oppose them as he did a year ago accompanied a rising stock market last week.

It was the market's sixth straight weekly rise but it was by no means a straight-line advance. The strength that put the market well ahead for the week was displayed Monday and Friday.

In the three sessions intervening, the market moved unevenly, "consolidating" its previous rise to new peaks. Except for Wednesday, when there were 95 more losers than gainers in the stock list, it was pretty much of a standoff.

The list bulled its way to new highs for 1963 Monday, as more companies announced selective price increases. Confidence was strengthened by news that industrial production had moved to a new record in March. Weekly steel production reached the highest level in three years.

When U. S. Steel finally fell in line and announced some price increases of its own Tuesday, the bloom was off the rose so far as the advance in steel stock was concerned—or so it seemed. Profit-taking on the steels and motors was a prominent phase of trading during the middledays of the week.

During most of Friday, this tendency continued, with volume slackening and not much expected in an apparently dull pre-week-end session. Late in the day, however, came Kennedy's remarks that indicated he would not oppose the price boosts.

Strangely enough, earlier in the same session, the management of Republic Steel and some smaller steel companies announced that they would rescind some of the price increases they had announced only a few days before. The steel shares moved uncertainly in reaction to this but there was no sell-off.

When Wall Street heard the Kennedy news it brought a renewed rush to buy the steels. U. S. Steel ended that day and the week as the outstanding volume leader on the New York Stock Exchange with a net gain of 1 3/4.

The Dow Jones industrial average reached a new peak for the year, making a moderate net gain of 3.23 to close the week at 711.68.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 3.1 to a new high for the year of 268.8.

Volume for the week totaled 26,228,060 shares compared with 22,310,731 in the previous week, which was shortened to four days by the closing of the exchange on Good Friday.

NEW YORK (AP)—Increasing use of continuous welded rail—in place of conventional bolted joints—is smoothing out train travel, reports Chemetron Corp., producer of more than 40 per cent of U. S. welded rail. In the process, standard 39-foot lengths are joined into quarter-mile "strings" to eliminate the usual "clackety clack" and save the railroads about $1,000 a mile each year, the company says, due to longer wear and reduced damage to cars and freight.

The island Tristan da Cunha is situated about halfway between South American and Africa.

San Jose, Costa Rica's 3,870-foot elevation and average 75-degree temperature give it a constant springlike climate.

Science, we read, has developed a method of causing snow to melt more slowly. THAT is progress?

In Sweden a man has had his height reduced six inches by having a surgeon remove sections of his thigh bones. That's trying to fit into one of those compact cars the hard way!

In chopping up an old stuffed chair for fuel a Balckburn, England, housewife discovered $1,116 worth of paper currency which had been stashed in it. Now she has money to burn!

The word "garage" was in very little use in the United States until near the end of the last century, says a historian. That's understandable because, before that, there wasn't anything to park in 'em.

Britain's rugby team defeated the French by a record 42 to 4 score. Bet the British got a boot out of that.

An Informed Public

As long as medicine is an art — it will probably never be an exact science while patients and physicians are human — there will be a defense for the doctor who adheres to the principle that silence is golden. It's not always easy to explain to a layman just what is wrong with him and how the prescribed treatment will achieve a cure.

If the patient would only be confused and frightened, it might be safer to treat him gently but tell him as little as possible.

So there are many doctors who deliberately avoid getting into technical discussions with their patients. Some of them go so far as to keep literature dealing with health off their waiting room magazine tables. Patients who read them frequently imagine they have symptoms of all sorts of ailments, they explain.

But a change has been taking place. As the science of medicine has advanced, it has made news. More and more people have picked up at least a smattering of medical knowledge. Slowly the medical profession has veered to the viewpoint that there's definite advantage to be gained from enlightening the public on matters of health.

The informed patient can and will cooperate with the doctor in getting an early diagnosis, following the prescribed treatment, maintaining a good mental attitude, and so on.

There are other advantages. Popular interest in medical progress has meant that public appeals for research funds could succeed. It has resulted in quicker acceptance of new techniques, new drugs new ideas.

Sports and Fitness

Many young people regard walking more than a few blocks as a positive hardship. This is not entirely the children's fault.

Walking as a means of getting somewhere or purely for exercise is discouraged these days. A pedestrian venturing on the verge of concrete-ribbon highways does so at the risk of life and limb. They are wholly dedicated to the motor car god.

More than anything else, we need a change in our attitudes. If children are to become participants instead of spectators, adults will have to ease the slavish idolization of commercialized sport. Young people inherit it from their elders.

Pictures of youngsters in Europe hiking in droves with rucksacks on their backs are not signs that they are "simple" or "backward", but rather that they are enjoying fun in the true meaning of that word. And the young people's cycling clubs which abound in Europe exist because their members enjoy the open-air exercise in the country, not because they cannot afford a car.

Physical exercise is only part of fitness. Rest, wise hygiene and diet play important parts. If there were less indulgence in candy bars, pop and popcorn and more dependence on more natural foods, fitness figures would show an improvement.

Where the Mole Has Been

By John Chamberlain

Sure as shooting, the Kennedy Administration has hopes that some sort of Grand Design for a real peace with Khrushchev can be made a permanent reality. The presumptive gamble is that the Kremlin will be sufficiently accommodating to call off the dogs of subversion all over the world, in Laos, in Guatemala, in Venezuela, in Berlin, and everywhere else, save in spheres touching on Red China over which the Soviets have no control.

Unlike the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, who in the last days of World War II, outlined his hopes for a Grand Design of accommodation with Stalin to Forrest Davis for publication in the Saturday Evening Post, the Kennedys are close-mouthed about their projected blueprint. But one can follow the thinking of the Administration as one traces the movements of a mole, by noting the upheavals of the terrain. One does not have to see the animal to know where he has been.

On one day, as the mole burrows his way along, the State Department lectures U. S. longshoremen for their refusal to load ships in American ports with cargo destined to go to Cuba or to Iron Curtain countries in Europe. On another day Cuban exiles are warned against hit-and-run raids on Castro's shipping. These things are followed up by a combination of blows delivered at the Cuban exile leader, Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, that recalls the most accomplished ring patterns of old Sugar Ray

Robinson when he was at the top of his pugilistic career.

A State Department understrapper, Robert Hurwitt, is so displeased with Dr. Miro for expressing feelings of betrayal that he threatens the Cuban exile, no citizens of the United States, with deportation "as a traitor" if he fails to keep a tight button on his mouth. Then the State Department enraged that Dr. Miro has indicated the existence of a 22-page document outlining the substance of his talks with the Administration over the course of two years following after the Bay of Pigs fiasco, leaks a portion of the document in order to refute the reputed burden of the whole.

Naturally, the State Department repudiates Hurwitt's angry threats — but Dr. Miro, reading some signs on the wall, takes the precaution to obtain a visa from Gonzalo Fiasco, the Secretary General of the Organization of American States, which will enable him to seek shelter in Costa Rica. By the time this column is in print Dr. Miro may have departed our shores. In Miami his friends are wondering if he will be the first of a new category of "exiled exiles."

It's all a mess, just as a criss-cross of mole burrowings can make your lawn a mess. But the mess on top of the lawn does not necessarily indicate a lack of direction in the mole's peregrinations. Dr. Miro, being hot blooded, is quite capable of forcing a mole

NEAR THE end of a tense golf match, one of the contestants, very temperamental, was thrown off his game when his caddy developed a severe attack of hiccoughs. On the seventeenth hole, he sliced his drive clean out of bounds, and growled fiercely at the caddy, "That was on account of you and your — hiccoughs." "But I didn't hiccough then, sir," protested the caddy. "That's just the point," screamed the player. "I had ALLOWED for it!"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...
By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

"Monday disease" is replacing Monday morning blues in the attention of Dr. Vernon Dodson at the University of Michigan.

"Monday disease" is a special condition that affects workers who are exposed to zinc fumes. It was observed that these workers developed fever and chills and bouts of coughing especially on Monday mornings. These symptoms slowly disappeared toward the end of each week.

The explanation was finally established.

Over the weekend period, these metal workers lost their tolerance to the irritating fumes that surrounded them at work. When on Monday they returned to work and were again exposed to these fumes, the symptoms actively began again until their tolerance was built up again by the end of the week.

The University of Michigan and public health officials are setting up protective devices to maintain the health of the metal workers in all industries.

The transplantation of organs like the kidney has stimulated research of a similar nature.

At the Medical College of Georgia, surgeons and scientists are now studying the possibility of transplanting new lungs for those that are medically incurable. This courageous kind of investigation draws on the imagination, skills, and knowledge of research doctor, technicians and physiologists.

There is no doubt that the transplantation of lungs will soon leave the field of speculation and become a practical reality.

An important addition to the early detection of cancer of the breast was reported at a meeting of the Canadian Association of Radiologists.

Early tumors of the breast were visualized by a special X-ray technique.

With careful evaluation, these X-ray studies can suggest fine shades of differentiation between benign and malignant tumors. These soft tissue X-rays have even shown the scarring and thickening in the breast tissue caused by a tight brassiere.

This additional contribution to the diagnosis of tumors of the breast increases the mathematical chances of cure. When early diagnosis is established, the statistics become increasingly more encouraging.

Interferon is a term that readers will soon recognize and speak familiarly about as another great scientific advance.

In a complicated way, Interferon stops the growth of certain viruses. Interest is being centered on it because it opens wider horizons for the prevention and treatment of many viral diseases that have not yet released their secrets.

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel price increases and indications that President Kennedy is not going to oppose them as he did a year ago accompanied a rising stock market last week.

It was the market's sixth straight weekly rise but it was by no means a straight-line advance. The strength that put the market well ahead for the week was displayed Monday and Friday.

In the three sessions intervening, the market moved unevenly, "consolidating" its previous rise to new peaks. Except for Wednesday, when there were 95 more losers than gainers in the stock list, it was pretty much of a standoff.

The list bulled its way to new highs for 1963 Monday, as more companies announced selective price increases. Confidence was strengthened by news that industrial production had moved to a new record in March. Weekly steel production reached the highest level in three years.

When U. S. Steel finally fell in line and hunched some price increases of its own Tuesday, the bloom was off the rose so far as the advance in steel stock was concerned—or so it seemed. Profit-taking on the steels and motors was a prominent phase of trading during the middledays of the week.

During most of Friday, this tendency continued, with volume slackening and not much expected in an apparently dull pre-week-end session. Late in the day, however, came Kennedy's remarks that indicated he would not oppose the price boosts.

Truck-Rail Controversy Still Boiling

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Those old-pro competitors, the truckers and the railroads, are having a quiet little battle in the legislature over the length of trucks used to haul new autos.

Truckers, in a bill just recommended for passage by the House Interstate Cooperation Committee, are seeking an increase from 50 to 60 feet in the length of the so-called haul-away trucks.

They say the increased length would allow trucks to haul one extra standard-size auto each trip. The standard haul-away now carries five standard cars or six compacts.

The railroads are objecting on grounds the longer trucks would be a hazard to other motorists. But railroads also are in the business of hauling autos. Triple-deck railroad cars haul 15 autos each.

Railroads have made serious inroads in recent years on the auto-hauling business which was almost a truck monopoly. The most serious crimp in the truck operations has been in the long-haul business, 500 miles and up.

Present Ohio law permits tractor-trailer combinations up to 60 feet in length but only when two trailers are involved.

Deputy Fired For Purchases From Felons

CLEVELAND (AP)—Former Deputy Sheriff George Gunn said today other deputies bought items from prisoners and he did not know the $10 he gave a prisoner for an expensive wristwatch would cost him his job.

As he spoke in his home, the 42-year-old Gunn fondled the watch and said:

"If I had the money, I could have bought many things (from prisoners) . . . a station wagon, hunting rifle, boat and sweaters. But I couldn't afford it."

Cuyahoga County Sheriff James J. McGettrick fired Gunn Saturday because he said jail rules forbid deputies from having any professional dealings with prisoners. He said Gunn was given a copy of the rules when he took the job last June.

In another development Saturday, Gunn's superior as chief night jailer resigned. He is Joseph E. Yusko, 73, a deputy for 26 years. He was unavailable for comment.

McGettrick, appointed sheriff Feb. 6, said he is investigating to see if other deputies have violated the jail rules by making purchases from prisoners.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Richard M. Nixon is now just as vague as President Kennedy on how to get communism out of Cuba. The history of these two men on this subject is a history of unhappy contradictions.

The former vice president in the 1960 campaign publicly opposed intervention in Cuba. But later he said he had been for it all the time and said it opposed it only to cover up preparations then going on for an invasion.

And even while he was secretly backing the invasion he said publicly if such a thing happened it would give Premier Khrushchev an excuse for moving into Cuba and thus put the United States in an awkward position.

He was a good prophet. There was a U.S.-backed invasion. Khrushchev subsequently moved in. His troops there have put the United States in an awkward position. That's why, apparently, Kennedy and Nixon are vague on what to do next.

Nixon also said during the campaign, while he wanted to intervene but was saying the opposite, that it was Kennedy who wanted to intervene. Kennedy denied he had any such thought although he talked of assisting the rebels.

Yet, it was Kennedy who later, as president, backed the invasion which failed. And it was Nixon who supported him in this disaster.

Kennedy, during the campaign, insisted this government should not handicap anti-Castro rebels in this country. But as president he now bars them from using American soil for hit-and-run raids on Cuba.

Both Nixon and Kennedy in the campaign insisted this country should not intervene against Fidel Castro in Cuba in violation of the U.N. charter and inter-American treaties which prohibit intervention.

But Kennedy said later the doctrine of non-interference couldn't stand in the way of the United States in protecting its own security. Now Nixon, not mentioning treaties, calls for action without saying how or what kind.

Nixon told the American Society of Newspaper Editors Saturday: "We must no longer postpone making a command decision to do whatever is necessary. The administration claims there are risks. I am convinced that the risks of inaction are far greater than the risks of action."

Here's the record: On Oct. 22, 1960, Nixon, charging Kennedy had called for an American-backed anti-Castro revolution, called this "shockingly reckless" because it would mean intervening in another country's internal affairs.

Nixon said: "Do you know what this would mean? We would violate right off the bat five treaties with American states" and the U.N. charter. This country, Nixon said, must keep its treaties and act legally.

Then he added this: Intervene-

tion would be a "direct invitation to the Soviet Union to intervene militarily on the side of Castro. This gives them the excuse they have been waiting for, because now they can say very easily: 'What is sauce for the goose is a sauce for the gander.' We can't play it both ways."

"They could say we can't object to the Soviet Union moving into Cuba under the Monroe Doctrine — we could at the present time (1960) — if the United States is attempting to intervene and move into the internal affairs of Cuba."

Kennedy denied this the next day. He said: "I have never advocated and I do not now advocate intervention in Cuba in violation of our treaty obligations."

But he had suggested this country "assist" the rebels and that they should not be "constantly handicapped" by American government authorities.

Nevertheless, the invasion occurred in April 1961, and Kennedy took full responsibility for it. As it was collapsing he told the American Society of Newspaper Editors that year on April 20:

This country would not hesitate to meet its "primary obligations, which are the security of our nation" if it "should ever appear that the inter-American doctrine of non-interference merely conceals or excuses a policy of non-action."

The next day, Nixon publicly backed Kennedy for supporting the invasion which flopped. But it wasn't until he wrote his book, "Six Crises," published in March 1962, that Nixon undertook to say how he secretly felt in the campaign of 1961 when he was opposing intervention.

He said he was for an invasion all the time but said the opposite only to conceal the fact that the Eisenhower administration was then training Cuban rebels for an invasion of their homeland.

And, Nixon said in his book, Kennedy knew in the 1960 campaign all about the invasion preparations because he had been briefed by the Central Intelligence Agency.

The White House promptly denied this and so did Allen Dulles, who was head of the CIA in 1960.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, April 22, the 122nd day of 1963. There are 253 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1864, Congress authorized the motto "In God We Trust" for use on coins of the U.S. government. The motto first appeared on two-cent pieces minted that year.

On this day: In 1793, George Washington issued his proclamation of U.S. neutrality in the war between France and England.

In 1889, the government opened the Oklahoma strip for settlement.

In 1915, the second battle of Ypres began in World War I—during which the first poison gas attack of the war was made.

In 1930, the London Naval Reduction Treaty was signed.

In 1944, American Troops landed at Hollandia, New Guinea, during World War II.

Today's birthdays:

Actor Eddie Albert is 55. Famous Gilbert & Sullivan portrayer Martyn Greene is 64.

Thought for today:

Who to himself is law no law doth need, offends no law and is a king indeed—George Champ man.

BOTH DEAD, NOW—James Lee, 45, inconsolable over the flash fire death of daughter Shirley, 9 (both shown), finally killed himself in a telephone booth in Chicago while talking to a Daily News reporter. Before that, he gave away two apartment buildings, an automobile, other possessions to charity. When his wife died seven years before, he retired from his profitable trucking business just to take care of Shirley.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon is now just as vague as President Kennedy on how to get communism out of Cuba. The history of these two men on this subject is a history of unhappy contradictions.

The former vice president in the 1960 campaign publicly opposed intervention in Cuba. But later he said he had been for it all the time and said it opposed it only to cover up preparations then going on for an invasion.

And even while he was secretly backing the invasion he said publicly if such a thing happened it would give Premier Khrushchev an excuse for moving into Cuba and thus put the United States in an awkward position.

He was a good prophet. There was a U.S. - backed invasion. Khrushchev subsequently moved in. His troops there have put the United States in an awkward position. That's why, apparently, Kennedy and Nixon are vague on what to do next.

Nixon also said during the campaign, while he wanted to intervene but was saying the opposite, that it was Kennedy who wanted to intervene. Kennedy denied he had any such thought although he talked of assisting the rebels.

Yet, it was Kennedy who later, as president, backed the invasion which failed. And it was Nixon who supported him in this disaster.

Kennedy, during the campaign, insisted this government should not handicap anti-Castro rebels in this country. But as president he now bars them from using American soil for hit-and-run raids on Cuba.

Both Nixon and Kennedy in the campaign insisted this country should not intervene against Fidel Castro in Cuba in violation of the U.N. charter and inter-American treaties which prohibit intervention.

But Kennedy said later the doctrine of non-interference couldn't stand in the way of the United States in protecting its own security. Now Nixon, not mentioning treaties, calls for action without saying how or what kind.

Nixon told the American Society of Newspaper Editors Saturday: "We must no longer postpone making a command decision to do whatever is necessary. The administration claims there are risks. I am convinced that the risks of inaction are far greater than the risks of action."

Here's the record:

On Oct. 22, 1960, Nixon, charging Kennedy had called for an American-backed anti-Castro revolution, called this "shockingly reckless" because it would mean intervening in another country's internal affairs.

Nixon said: "Do you know what this would mean? We would violate right off the bat five treaties with American states" and the U.N. charter. This country, Nixon said, must keep its treaties and act legally.

Then he added this: Intervene-

tion would be a "direct invitation to the Soviet Union to intervene militarily on the side of Castro. This gives them the excuse they have been waiting for, because now they can say very easily: 'What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.' We can't play it both ways."

"They could say we can't object to the Soviet Union moving into Cuba under the Monroe Doctrine — we could at the present time (1960) — if the United States is attempting to intervene and move into the internal affairs of Cuba."

Kennedy denied this the next day. He said: "I have never advocated and I do not now advocate intervention in Cuba in violation of our treaty obligations."

But he had suggested this country "assist" the rebels and that they should not be "constantly handicapped" by American government authorities.

Nevertheless, the invasion occurred in April 1961, and Kennedy took full responsibility for it. As it was collapsing he told the American Society of Newspaper Editors that year on April 20:

This country would not hesitate to meet its "primary obligations, which are the security of our nation" if it "should ever appear that the inter-American doctrine of non-interference merely conceals or excuses a policy of non-action."

The next day, Nixon publicly backed Kennedy for supporting the invasion which flopped. But it wasn't until he wrote his book, "Six Crises," published in March 1962, that Nixon undertook to say how he secretly felt in the campaign of 1961 when he was opposing intervention.

He said he was for an invasion all the time but said the opposite only to conceal the fact that the Eisenhower administration was then training Cuban rebels for an invasion of their homeland.

And, Nixon said in his book, Kennedy knew in the 1960 campaign all about the invasion preparations because he had been briefed by the Central Intelligence Agency.

The White House promptly denied this and so did Allen Dulles, who was head of the CIA in 1960.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, April 22, the 112th day of 1963. There are 253 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1864, Congress authorized the motto "In God We Trust" for use on coins of the U.S. government. The motto first appeared on two-cent pieces minted that year.

On this day: In 1793, George Washington issued his proclamation of U.S. neutrality in the war between France and England.

In 1889, the government opened the Oklahoma strip for settlement.

In 1915, the second battle of Ypres began in World War I—during which the first poison gas attack of the war was made.

In 1930, the London Naval Reduction Treaty was signed.

In 1944, American Troops landed at Hollandia, New Guinea, during World War II.

Today's birthdays: Actor Eddie Albert is 55. Famous Gilbert and Sullivan portrayer Martyn Green is 64.

Thought for today: Who to himself is law no law doth need, offends no law and is a king indeed—George Champ man.

BOTH DEAD, NOW—James Lee, 45, inconsolable over the flash fire death of daughter Shirley, 9 (both shown), finally killed himself in a telephone booth in Chicago while talking to a Daily News reporter. Before that, he gave away two apartment buildings, an automobile, other possessions to charity. When his wife died seven years before, he retired from his profitable trucking business just to take care of Shirley.

Housekeepers Wage War On Litterbugs

Countless American housekeepers have put down the dust mop and have taken up the broom. They're marching outdoors to make a clean sweep of the nation's highways, byways, beaches, streets, parks and forests.

Their aim? To wage war on litterbugs and keep the great outdoors as spotless as a model kitchen.

It's a major job because the enemy is everywhere—in city, suburb and country.

In one southern city, for example, litterbugs drop 100 tons of trash daily over 800 miles of paved street. In a major northern metropolis, they account for 3 million tons of refuse annually.

In addition to the ugliness of the litter and debris left by this offender, cleaning up the litterbug's mess is costly. Keep America Beautiful, Inc., the national public service organization for the prevention of litter, estimates that over 500 million tax dollars are spent annually for this job.

How are women fighting the litterbug? With imagination, persistence and lots of old-fashioned elbow grease. Working in cooperation with Keep America Beautiful, they are organizing litter-prevention activities in clubs and communities across the nation.

In New Orleans, 4,000 garden club members have pledged to serve as "watchers" for car-borne litterbugs. When they see trash tossed from a car, they note the license plate, check the registration and send the owner a friendly letter calling his attention to the offense and asking his cooperation the city's cleanup campaign.

The Mayor's all-women committee to "Keep Detroit Beautiful" conducts an anti-litterbug workshop each spring for leaders of neighborhood groups.

This program pays dividends because, since it was initiated in 1955, the city's annual report how saving of more than $1,114,000 for rubbish collection and street cleaning.

Women members of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce have a program, too. Their motto—"Don't throw it—stow it!"

The story is the same in countless communities across the country. Women are helping in many ways. Their projects run the gamut from providing litterbags for autos and boats to dividing a community into sections and, aided by city officials seeing that each section is first cleaned up, then "policed" to keep it that way.

Negotiations Continue in Rubber Fuss

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Negotiations were to continue today on new contracts covering more than 50,000 United Rubber Workers Union members who have threatened to strike the nation's three top rubber companies.

The old contracts ran out at midnight Saturday—the deadline the union had set for possible strike action against Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., B.F. Goodrich Co. and the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

URW locals at plants in 15 states had given their negotiators strike authority. The talks went past the strike deadline, and union officials agreed to keep workers at their jobs on a day-to-day basis while negotiations continued.

There were no progress reports Sunday in separate bargaining sessions in three Ohio cities. Firestone negotiations are in Columbus, Goodrich in Dayton and Goodyear in Cincinnati.

Discussions at the bargaining table reportedly are centered on wages, paid vacations and holidays, as well as a sabbatical vacation plan proposed by the union. Both sides reportedly are near agreement on supplemental unemployment benefits.

PHENYLKETONURIA

Q. What is phenylketonuria? Is there any treatment?

A. Phenylketonuria is an inheritable disorder of body chemistry often associated with mental defects. Progress has recently been made in treatment of this disorder through dietary means. Early diagnosis (during infancy) is essential in warding off the mental effects of phenylketonuria.

HEART CONSCIOUSNESS

Q. Lately I can not rest or sleep on my left side because my heart pumps so fast and hard. I am under medical treatment but not for heart trouble. What causes this?

A. Most people have probably had this experience. Thumping of the heart may be especially noticeable when everything is quiet and sleep seems far off. Change position in bed and the heart will "quiet down," or at least the heart beat won't be noticed so much. Awareness of body functions such as the heart beat is usually not a manifestation of serious disease.

Knowing that you have access to the thinking of learned people, could you please tell me where in the Bible it says Christ drank grape juice instead of wine? Thanking you,

MRS. E.

DEAR MRS. E.: I can best answer your letter by quoting a learned friend:

"Dear Miss Van Buren: I am not sure that I qualify as one of the learned people to whom you have access, but I am happy to give you such information as may be helpful. Your correspondent's neighbor has John the Baptist confused with Christ. Nowhere in the New Testament does it say that 'Christ drank only grape juice'. There have been many attempts to prove that Christ was a total abstainer. Such attempts involve an ignoring of Jewish social custom and the obvious meaning of the Greek and Hebrew words involved. No reputable scholar would take these suggestions seriously. References in Luke 2:3; Luke 5:39 and Luke 7:34, which indicate that there were overly pious people who criticized even Christ himself.

PHENYLKETONURIA

Q. What is phenylketonuria? Is there any treatment?

A. Phenylketonuria is an inheritable disorder of body chemistry often associated with mental defects. Progress has recently been made in treatment of this disorder through dietary means. Early diagnosis (during infancy) is essential in warding off the mental effects of phenylketonuria.

HEART CONSCIOUSNESS

Q. Lately I can not rest or sleep on my left side because my heart pumps so fast and hard. I am under medical treatment but not for heart trouble. What causes this?

A. Most people have probably had this experience. Thumping of the heart may be especially noticeable when everything is quiet and sleep seems far off. Change position in bed and the heart will "quiet down," or at least the heart beat won't be noticed so much. Awareness of body functions such as the heart beat is usually not a manifestation of serious disease.

Record Crowd Is on Hand For Annual Harness Matinee

A record breaking crowd of nearly 1,500 local harness race fans turned out yesterday to watch the annual Spring matinee at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds oval.

Undoubtedly one of the motivating factors for the big crowd was the innovation of quarter horse racing during the matinee.

Seemingly over before they start, the quarter horse races pack plenty of thrills in a short time. The first race, a 220-yard dash, lasted just 11 seconds from start to finish.

Bunched together at the wire were Go Devil, owned and ridden by Danny Evans of Marion, Ind.; first, Diana Moore, owned by Tom Williams of Jamestown, second and Ty Ky, owned by Rick Macioc of Bremen, third.

THE SPIRITED animals ran the second race, a 400 yard dash in 24 seconds, with Texas Bandit, owned and ridden by D. F. Abner of Laurel, Ind., winning. Diana Moore again placed second and Lees Flyaway owned by Linville Whitaker of Rushville, Ind., was third.

Harness fans at the local oval saw five outstanding races with the best time of the day posted in the fifth race. George Van Camp's Chita Can went the distance in 2:13, passing Stormy Steam in the home stretch.

Stormy Steam, owned by Arthur Mace and reined by F. Trees, went on top early in the race, going the first quarter in 33 seconds and reaching the halfway mark in 1:06.4. But Van Camp started his move in the back stretch, going on top as the pair rounded the last curve.

RACE CLERK Miss Sara Short presented the blanket, donated by Scioto Downs, to Van Camp. The Downs, also furnished the head numbers and saddle pads used in the races.

In the first race of the day, Bill ie Deters, driving Law Chief, trailed I'm Clever, owned and driven by Jack Betts, for three quarters and then nosed ahead at the wire to win in 2:20.3.

Fluffie Cloud, owned by Marion Moats of Mt. Sterling and driven by Forrest Short placed third and Jim Abbe, reined by Harry Short was fourth.

The race was a two-year-old pace and marked the first time the juveniles had started behind a starting gate.

In the conditioned trot and pace Jim Arledge drove Alma Walnut to a quarter time of 35 seconds and a halfway mark of 1:10.4 and a three quarter mark of 1:45.1. Finishing in 2:18 as he led all the way.

Jerisong, driven by Forrest Short finished third but was placed second as Sandy-Ko-San broke coming under the wire.

THE CONDITIONED pace was won by Dancing Cheetah in 2:17. T. D. Van Camp kept the pacer well out front all the way.

Lib Carol, owned by Bill Neal of Circleville was second, Clever J.L. owned by Jack Betts was third and Sandy Lite, another Betts owned steed was fourth.

In the fourth race, a two-year-old pace, a proud Ed Pichard, won in the first driving start of his life as he reined Shady Dale Plane to a 2:21.3 mile. He led all the way.

Second place went to Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Field's Keystone Kop and Erla Creed owned by George A. Fissell, was third.

The afternoon's event was marred only by a gusty drizzle that sent the railbirds looking for cover.

Race Secretary John Fissell was more than pleased with the turnout at the Matinee, calling it "the biggest ever" at the annual spring event sponsored by the Pickaway County Agricultural society.

"A word of thanks is due to local horsemen Forrest Short, Jack Betts, George and T. D. Van Camp, Jim Arledge, Frank and Harley Mace for their cooperation in making this Matinee possible," said Fissell, who played an important role himself in the event.

"AND SPECIAL thanks to Earl Martin for maintenance of the track before and during the races. Also a word of gratitude is due to Bob Patrick of Ashville and Larry Graham of Circleville for their assistance in organizing the quarter horse races."

Presiding judge was Robert Steele, business manager of Scioto Downs. Robert Hunt and Glenn McCoy were the associate judges.

The starting gate was provided by Hank Butler. Willie Leist of Circleville was the announcer. Timmers were Scott Radcliffe, Fred Mace and Steve Jones, all of Circleville.

Mrs. Barbara Brummett of Ashville, on Laddie Debbie Delight was the outrider.

The speed committee for the Fair Board is Ralph McDill, Wayne Martin and Harold Nagel, all of Circleville.

Braves Bump Unioto, 5-2

Victory Gives LE 1-0 Mark in Loop

The Logan Elm baseball Braves backed up Jim Hick's two-hit pitching performance with six of their own Saturday, defeating Unioto, 5-2, in a Scioto Valley Conference game at Pickaway School.

The game was a replay of an earlier tilt that was called at the end of eight innings because of darkness with the score knotted, 5-5.

Hicks fanned 12 in the seven inning game and didn't issue a single base on balls. It was the first conference game for the Braves.

Logan Elm went on top 2-0 the end of the first inning, then added the three winning runs in the fourth.

UNIOTO'S run came in the sixth when Lionel Wisecup, the losing pitcher, doubled with two men on base, driving both runners home.

Weather permitting, the Braves are scheduled at Paint Valley today. They meet Monroe in the county tournament finals tomorrow at Jackson.

Dow West, baseball mentor at Logan Elm said reports indicate the Bearcats are the team to beat in the loop this year. However, defending champion Picketon is expected to be a contender again this year.

With two good right handers on his staff in Hicks and Jeff Lutz, and two important games on successive days, West reported he was still undecided who would start which games. Earlier he had indicated he might save Lutz for the tournament finals.

Stint in Minors Is Help to Maloney

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Looking back now, Jim Maloney figures his being sent to the minors last year by the Cincinnati Reds was the best thing for him. He didn't think so at the time.

His work this year indicates the hiatus did him some good. He went all the way Sunday in an 8-3 Cincinnati victory at Pittsburgh and his second triumph of the year.

Jim was touched up freely for a dozen hits, but he kept them well-distributed and was able to bear down when needed.

He was sent down to San Diego after spring drills last year. However, he found it was a smart move. He said he got back the control he apparently lacked at spring training and was back with the Reds in June. He finished with a 9-7 mark.

Reigh Count won the Walden Stakes at Pimlico in 1927 and sired Count Fleet, winner of the 1942 Walden.

JUST FISHIN' FOR BLUEGILLS — Vern Hutchinson, Ashville, was probably as surprised as he was happy yesterday when this 11-pound 1-ounce, 34-inch muskie took his bait at Hargus Lake, Marion State Park. Hutchinson was fishing for bluegills, using the common red worm, approximately 20 feet from shore. Just as he was about to land his catch, after a struggle that lasted nearly 15 minutes, his line broke. But Hutchinson went right in the water after the fish. Elated with his catch, he packed his equipment and headed for town to show his "braggin' size" fish. The happy angler reported about 15 other fishermen immediately descended on the spot in hopes of duplicating his feat. (Photo by Art Wilkin)

Merrick Challenges Women's Pin Star

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Marge Merrick of Columbus shapes up as the top challenger to defending champion Donna Zimmerman of Akron in this weekend's Ohio State Ladies Singles Match Game Bowling Tournament at Cleveland.

In a field of 80 competing here over the past weekend for the 10 spots in the round-robin finals, Miss Merrick led qualifiers by averaging 203 pins for the 16-game grind. She closed out with booming games of 267 and 235 for a 3251 total.

Helen Shima of Cleveland was second with 3177. The defending champ had 3147 for third place.

Central State Tops Relays

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Central State stood out in the college competition and Dayton Dunbar in the high school division in Saturday's 21st Ohio State Relays which saw eight meet records established.

Central State copped the mile, half-mile and quarter-mile relay events and had the day's sole double winner in hurdler William Washington. Western Michigan was the only other school to capture more than one event, taking the two-mile relay and distance medley.

Dunbar copped the mile and half-mile relay races and its Jim Baldwin won the high school 120-yard high hurdles. Ohio State's Paul Warfield won the college division's broad jump with a 74-foot, 9 1/2-inch leap. Ohio University set a 3:22 record in the sprint medley relay. Miami of Ohio's Scott Tyler won the 100 on 9.56 seconds and Miami freshman Andy Schramm prevailed in the mile at 3:14.8.

The 1964 Women's International Bowling Congress tournament will be held at Lynbrook Bowl in Minneapolis starting April 2.

Tiger Golfers Drop Match with Logan

The Circleville golf squad dropped its first dual meet of the season, losing to Logan High school Saturday, 9 1/2-6 1/2, on the 5,730-yard course at the Logan Country Club.

In total strokes, the Tigers held a slight edge, totaling 333 as a team while the hosting chiefs had 335. In district and state tournament play, scores are figured on a total stroke basis rather than match play.

Tom Bivens, shooting in the first spot for Circleville, carded a 44 on the first nine. He then posted the best nine holes of the day with a two over par 37 on the back nine, for a total of 81.

58 Candidates Make Bids for Majors Berths

Tryouts Saturday for the Little League Majors saw 58 youngsters display their baseball abilities at Ted Lewis Park, it was reported today by Forrest Brown, secretary of the Circleville Youth Baseball Program.

Brown said the tryouts for the majors will be completed next Saturday. They will be conducted from 9 a. m. until 1 p. m.

Final registration for the Little League minors will be held in conjunction with the Saturday tryouts. Birth certificates are needed by boys registering for their first year in the Youth Baseball Program.

Five managers are still needed for both divisions of the Little League, according to Brown. Persons interested may contact Bill Thomas, president of the organization.

Managers have been assigned for all teams in the Mosquito league.

His opponent, Moore, shot a 43-46. Bivens won 3-1.

Medalist for the day was John McAfee with a 79, going against Tim Dickinson in the second flight. Dickinson shot an 82, picking up half a point for the Tigers.

BRUCE HELWAGEN gained 2 1/2 points for Circleville with an 18-hole total of 81 while his opponent had an 83. Helwagen had a 39 on his first nine.

In the final match Robert Fuhrman posted an 89, good for a half point. His opponent, Robbie Johns picked up 3 1/2 for the winners with rounds of 43 and 41.

"The boys know they didn't shoot their best golf at Logan," said Bob Ransom, Tiger golf coach. "But the combination of the strange course, high winds, and good opposition were just a little bit too much for us."

"I think we learned a lot from the loss, and it certainly didn't hurt as now as it would later," he added.

The second foursome taken to the Logan meet by Ransom composed of Chuck Smith, Dick Patrick, Richard Fuhrman and John Wardell, won.

Smith shot 44-45 for an 89, Patrick, 45-43 for an 88, Fuhrman, 44-42 for an 86 and Jon Wardell 53-46 for an even 100.

SATURDAY the Tigers host Chillicothe in match play at the Pickaway Country Club. The meet is scheduled to get under way at 9 a. m.

Ransom has planned an intrasquad match 4 p. m. Tuesday at the PCC. He has divided the team as evenly as possible. The coach said an intense rivalry that has already built up between the two units promises to make the match a top highlight of the practice season.

The Los Angeles Angels will play 59 home night games this year.

Local Schools Share Role in 'Patriots Day'

Circleville public and parochial students participated Friday in an impressive "Patriots Day" observance.

In most schools students adjourned to playground areas where they stood in silence while the Foreman Chimes rang out "America". The Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag and patriotic songs followed.

This American Legion program of dedication to the Battles of Lexington and Concord is in its second year and is a reminder that this country is in ready.

Locally the program is sponsored by Hall-Adkins Post 134 of the American Legion. Post officials today said it was gratifying to hear many bells of the churches, see flags flying and listen to the sound of the Foreman Chimes.

The Post expressed special thanks to Truman Eberly for playing the Foreman Chimes, to Fritz Jacobs, superintendent of public schools, Father Mason of the Catholic School and to the 3,000 plus school children for making the program a success.

Post Commander Harold W. Hill along with Mayor Richard Penn, has urged the citizens of Circleville to make every day a "patriots' Day."

K of C Members Earn Degree

Hannan Council 5297, Knights of Columbus, held a joint exemplification of the Third Degree with Chillicothe Flaget Council 1071 at Chillicothe yesterday afternoon.

Leo P. Stark, state treasurer, was master for conferring of the degree. Twenty-four local men received the degree. They were Paul Bockratk, Steve Brudzinski, Edwin Dean, Lawrence Dietrich, Joseph Goeller Jr., Paul Hang Jr., Charles Heimann, Mark Howell, Thomas Howell, Donald Humphrey, John Lake, Norman O'Brien, Fiske O'Hara, Arthur Rooney, Richard Seimer, Thomas Shea, Stanley Stevens, Dennis Tully and Lewis Whaley.

All members of Hannan Council are reminded of the Knight of the Year dinner Saturday at the American Legion Post, south of Circleville on Route 23.

Khrushchev . . .

crisis had not led to an easing of the cold war. He blamed this on America.

"In the United States," he claimed, "there are forces which continue the old policy of 'from a position of strength.'"

"Such a policy cannot lead to relaxation of tension or to improvement in the international situation. The unrestrained campaign staged by the angry men in the United States and launched against a sovereign state, Cuba, and the support offered by certain American circles to maritime robbery and to piracy in the Caribbean Sea are in fact the manifestations of this policy."

Speaking of his troubles with Communist China, Khrushchev said that the current debate between Moscow and Peking was completely an internal affair and would only lead to a strengthening of relations.

Turning to disarmament, Khrushchev said:

"The biggest efforts undertaken by the United States and its allies in NATO are not aimed at concluding a treaty on general and complete disarmament but in intensifying the armament race and creating an aggressive NATO nuclear force."

"Only in this way can one explain why the committee of 18 is practically stalled in Geneva and has, up to now not approved any decision leading to conclusion of a program for complete and general disarmament."

He insisted that the Soviet Union had accepted a Western quota of two or three inspections a year to control a test ban. He claimed that the United States then "advanced again the request that eight to ten inspections a year be made although previously responsible representatives of the United States in talks with Soviet representatives declared they could accept two to four inspections a year."

Case Institute Trustee Given Honorary Position

CLEVELAND (AP)—Albert M. Higley of Baker Heights, a trustee of Case Institute of Technology for the past 13 years, has been elected an honorary trustee of Case.

The announcement today said Higley was named to the honorary post after he resigned his regular seat on the board at its spring meeting.

OLD BELIEVERS: The United States is providing haven for 200 to 250 members of a religious sect whose descendants left Russia for Turkey 300 years ago. The group, the Old Believers sect, settled on the shores of Lake Manyas after splitting from the Russian Orthodox Church in a 17th-century dispute over church rituals.

Since 1959, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said Sunday in an announcement, they have been under pressure from the Soviet Union to return and about 1,000 have done so. Those remaining in Turkey appealed for permission to enter the United States and the Tolstoy Foundation of New York has undertaken their sponsorship and resettlement.

RACIAL: Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy foresees another decade of racial disturbances in the United States before Negroes have full equality with whites.

"This is not a problem that is confined to one section," Kennedy said, and the disturbances will break out in both the South and North. In fact, he said in a taped radio-television interview there is much racial prejudice in the North — perhaps more subtle — more sinister than in the South."

U.N. DAY: President Kennedy has proclaimed Thursday, October 21, as United Nations Day and urged Americans to mark the occasion with community programs.

POLITICS: Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, says that if President Kennedy were confident of re-election, his brother Robert would replace Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson on the 1964 Democratic ticket.

The object, Mrs. Smith said in a taped radio-television interview would be to build up Robert F. Kennedy for 1968.

However, she said, Johnson will run again.

"I don't think that Jack Kennedy is strong enough to dump him. I think he needs Lyndon Johnson to carry the South," Mrs. Smith said.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Warm, moist air in collision with dry, cold air over Ohio Sunday and Sunday night produced numerous showers and thunderstorms mostly over the southern and central counties.

Little change is indicated today and tonight as the two contrasting air masses will again trigger a series of showers and thunderstorms in most counties with a chance of locally heavy rain.

Tuesday an initial push of the colder air is expected to send the warm, moist air in retreat, ending the showers and followed by lower temperatures.

Near sunrise today temperatures ranged from 33 at Youngstown to 55 at Chesapeake. Elsewhere Columbus had 44, Cincinnati 49 and Marietta 47.

NORTHERN OHIO—Temperatures will average two to four degrees below normal. Normal high 60-62, normal low 39-43. Cool, only minor day-to-day temperature changes through mid-week, followed by warming trend to near normal temperatures by end of week. Rainfall will average near three-fourths of an inch as rain and showers Monday night and early Tuesday, scattered showers toward end of week.

SOUTHERN & CENTRAL OHIO—Temperatures will average two to four degrees below normal. Normal high 64-70, normal low 40-48. Cooler Tuesday, little change until warming trend toward week end. Rainfall will average about one-half inch south to three-fourths inch central, occurring most in scattered thunderstorms and showers tonight, east early Tuesday. Chance of showers over weekend.

Communists . . .

radio accuse the United States of developing a germ that will kill colored people while leaving white people unharmed.

During 1962, the Communist nations broadcast 3,846 hours a week to other areas of the world, using most of the important vernacular languages, including Kurdish, Hindi, Urdu, Swahili, Hausa, Mandarin and Armenian.

USIA's Voice of America countered with 761 hours a week, using some but not as many of the vernacular languages. This American effort, however, was swelled by the broadcasting of American allies.

In 1962, the Soviet Union published and distributed 40 million copies of 1,800 books and brochures in 34 non-Soviet languages. During the same year, USIA gave funds to help publishers overseas print 4.4 million copies of 649 translations of American books. In addition, the USIA distributed 756,000 books contributed by private Americans.

Edward R. Murrow has freely conceded that the U.S. Information Agency, which he heads, is a propaganda outfit. But the propaganda it uses is the truth, Murrow told a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee last month.

To battle Communist propaganda and to improve the American image abroad, the USIA uses a staff of almost 4,000 and an annual budget of $120 million. Murrow told congressmen that the Soviet Union probably has an operation four times as large.

Business Briefs

Jack McGuire, 833 Atwater Ave. local agent for Motorists Mutual Insurance Co., met qualifications to attend the firm's 34th Agents' Annual Convention Friday and Saturday at the Neil House in Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. McGuire were guests of the company, along with 800 other leading agents, employees and their wives from six states.

The sessions included comments by Senator James W. Huffman, president of Motorists Mutual.

Spiny lobsters are increasingly important in world fisheries because they stand freezing well and can be shipped anywhere.

KIDDING—Along with word that Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, wife of the President, is expecting her third child in August comes word that two of her sisters-in-law also are expecting. The expectant ones are Mrs. Robert Kennedy (left), wife of the attorney general, and Mrs. Edward Kennedy (right), wife of the senator from Massachusetts.
